Update on Hydro and Watermain Repairs Downtown London

Following a major watermain break on October 31, 2007, London Hydro reports that power was fully restored to the downtown core at 9:16 p.m. This includes City Centre, Galleria and the Hilton Hotel. As London Hydro and City of London workers continue repairs it may be necessary to turn power off intermittently and we will try to provide advance notice where possible.

Water crews wrapped up what they could do last night shortly after midnight. The 12 inch watermain has been mostly repaired with some further work required over the next couple of days. City crews will coordinate with London Hydro as required over the next couple of days.
